Deny or Limit My Child's Access to the Internet and Electronic Mail
In many classes, students are introduced to electronic mail and other global information resources, including the Internet. MPS has developed a policy to enhance your child's education through use of the Internet. Your child will participate in accessing the Internet and online resources for learning activities unless you choose to deny your child all Internet and email access, or you choose to limit access only to selected sites determined by a parent advisory group, administrators, and teachers. A limited number of pre-approved sites are available. If you want to limit or deny your child's Internet or electronic mail access, check the appropriate item.			<input type="checkbox"/> Check here to deny all access.
			<input type="checkbox"/> Check here to limit access only to pre-approved sites selected by a parent advisory group, administrators, and teachers.
